

MANDATES & CAMPAIGNING

You may already be aware that campaigns are a core part of TG and something we do our best to uphold as part of our aims and objectives.

We would like to outline for you what we at TGHQ do and how you as a TG member can help us to further our causes.

Mandates

Each year at the AGM we raise mandates or topics for discussion to be voted on and approved by the membership so that we as a national organisation can campaign on them. These topics are suggested by the membership so if you have any thoughts on what TG should be speaking out about, please do write in and let us know. Topics are chosen in the January of that year's AGM and Rhiannon Batsford at TGHQ will be happy to help if you are unsure about any procedures.

Campaigning

Following the AGM the National Executive Committee (NEC) write to various Government officials and MPs as well as CEOs or other contacts at relevant charities and organisations to inform them about how our members feel about issues and ask if there is anything we can do to help.

Copies of the more interesting responses can be found on the TG website (www.the-tg.com), along with other relevant news and updates relating to our campaigns.

What we would like you to do

The NEC and TGHQ cannot do it alone; it is the actions our members take in pushing campaigns forward and raising TG's profile which will allow us to show that TG is passionate about the issues we campaign on.

TGHQ will always do what we can to help you; on our website you will find guidance on writing campaign letters and other hints and tips on how to further our campaigns.
